LinkedIn

Great to see this excellent piece in last week's edition of MEES, regarding the impact of the fall of Assad on Syria and on regional dynamics.

I was pleased to speak with author Yesar Al-Maleki, about how Syria's oil and gas industry is a critical sector that can provide significant revenue to fund early recovery, reconstruction, and the humanitarian needs of the Syrian people. I strongly believe it can be a key element of the peace-building process within Syria.

I also stressed that the Production Sharing Contracts ("PSCs") that Gulfsands and other international energy companies have, are sovereign agreements and we expect that these will be respected and honoured by the incoming government.

You can read the full piece at Assad's Downfall Reshuffles Regional Order | MEES and for those without a subscription, a PDF is available on the Media page of the Gulfsands website at https://gulfsands.com/media-hub/.

To keep across our work at Gulfsands please follow us here on LinkedIn or on our website https://gulfsands.com/. We are always interested to hear others' views and input.

#Gulfsands #ProjectHope #Syria #oilandgas